My husband and I have been very compliant with National Grids recommendations for energy conservation. After a great deal of thought, discussions, and National Grid rebate offers we made the decision to install a heat pump system ,to reduce oil consumption.I recently retired from my job of 43 years,so the rebates on our price proposal are very significant regarding the ability to purchase this system. We are very disappointed that National Grid has reneged on the rebates that were to be in contract for 3 years. Hopefully this issue will be resolved soon.
